

It's About Living: Changing the Conversation

Being a caregiver means we are often tasked with making difficult decisions, which can be especially hard when our loved one hasn't made their final wishes known.

Please join us for a lunch designed as an uplifting adventure to tackle an often-not-discussed topic: death & dying. This isn't meant to be morbid, but a human experience where we consider what we and our loved ones want -- both in life and at its close.

If we want to change how we deal with death in our culture, we all need to join in the conversation. After all, it's about living!
