

When Dementia and the Frail Older Adult Have a Seat at Your Holiday Table

Presented by Chris Petrik, RN, BS, CDP, CADDCT, Elderwerks Educational Services

We anticipate having family, loved ones and our “chosen” family present for holiday traditions. When those we care for have dementia, or other related disease, things can change quickly. The results often cause frustration and confusion for person with the illness, the host and guests. This presentation will provide suggestions on reducing the anxiety of the event and look at the well-being of the person. Tips and the sharing of ideas help prepare for a more relaxed holiday!
